Annual Report

Giving is The Best Medicine

Throughout our 80-year history built on outstanding community support, advances in medicine at Mount Sinai Hospital have underscored our leadership role in providing The Best Medicine for our patients. We are fortunate to have donors whose generous philanthropy fuels Hospital initiatives, care, and innovation, improving the quality of life for our patients – whether it's leading-edge technology, surgery, or research for fighting disease.

We are proud to be one of the country's leading academic health centres, with a well-earned reputation for outstanding patient care, innovative teaching, and pioneering research. Mount Sinai is an acknowledged leader in such areas as gastrointestinal and infectious diseases, orthopaedics, internal medicine, heart and respiratory failure, surgical oncology, women's and infants' health, urology, emergency and palliative care, it is a recognized centre for high-incident chronic adult diseases such as arthritis, cancer, heart disease, and diabetes. Our dedicated team of nurses, doctors, scientists, staff, and volunteers are united in their desire to improve the quality of life of our patients.

To that end, in the past year, Mount Sinai has:

- ❖ Treated more than 25,000 inpatients
- ❖ Treated another 630,000 outpatients
- ❖ Delivered more than 7,000 babies
- ❖ Treated 38,000 patients in the Emergency Department.

Mount Sinai will continue to create The Best Medicine through the advancement of scientific knowledge at our world-renowned Samuel Lunenfeld Research Institute. With over 500 researchers, investigators, and staff, the Institute ensures that the latest scientific discovery is translated into the best in patient care now and in the future.

Mount Sinai Hospital is deeply grateful to all the people whose talent, commitment, and generosity create The Best Medicine.

Mount Sinai Hospital Foundation

Fueling The Best Medicine

At Mount Sinai Hospital Foundation, everything is focused on one objective – The Best Medicine, which is not just the name of one of the most successful fundraising campaigns in Canadian hospital history. Every day, Mount Sinai's nurses, physicians, scientists, staff, volunteers, and donors make The Best Medicine a passionate reality.

The Best Medicine campaign relies on the extraordinary generosity of our donors and those who facilitate their philanthropy. Consider our results to date: we have now raised more than $250 million toward our $400-million campaign goal. These funds help provide Mount Sinai Hospital with the infrastructure to deliver the best patient care along with ground-breaking medical research.

For more than 80 years, Mount Sinai has continuously improved delivery of excellence in patient care. In an era of tight fiscal constraints, the support of our donor community is even more essential in allowing Mount Sinai to pursue its mission. Each and every dollar donated is important and warmly appreciated.

We are extremely fortunate that our inspiring donors turn their compassion into action. We pay special tribute to our most generous supporters over the year ended March 31, 2005:

- ❖ the Kimel family, long-time donors who contributed once again, with $8 million to upgrade our medical imaging department;
- ❖ Joseph and Wolf Lebovic, who donated an additional $6 million to establish the Joseph and Wolf Lebovic Research Centre;

- ❖ the Ira Gluskin and Maxine Granovsky-Gluskin Charitable Foundation, which provided $3 million to establish the Granovsky-Gluskin Centre for Best Practice in Family Medicine;
- ❖ Barry and Honey Sherman and Al and Malka Green, who each pledged new $1-million donations.

Our renowned Samuel Lunenfeld Research Institute (SLRI) is ranked among the world's top ten research centres. Here, philanthropy is fueling international research into gene-based disease as well as other areas, including oncology, diabetes, arthritis, orthopaedics, women's and infants' health, and gastrointestinal disease. Our scientists receive abundant international acclaim, wonderful testimony to the calibre of research conducted at the SLRI, which would not be possible without donor support. From the Surgical Skills Centre to the Marvelle Koffler Breast Centre to the new home of the Temmy Latner Centre for Palliative Care, the generosity of our donors is transforming Mount Sinai, and advancing excellence.

This report marks a changing of the guard at the Foundation. It is the first report issued under the leadership of new President Carol Wilding and new Foundation Board Chair Edward Sonshine, who carry the mandate and possess the qualifications to lead us to greater heights. It also marks Michael Bregman's final report with the completion of his three-year term as Board Chair. We view the future with great enthusiasm and confidence.

Mount Sinai is a very special and wonderful hospital. It is filled with extraordinary people – clinicians, volunteers, staff, and supporters – who care deeply. They all share the same noble goal of providing patients with The Best Medicine. As this Annual Report pays tribute to the generosity of donors who help make it a reality and a tremendous success, we have titled it, appropriately, Giving is the Best Medicine. We thank you.

The Best Medicine

Lawrence Bloomberg

Edward Sonshine

In 1995, Mount Sinai launched The Best Medicine, an ambitious – and highly successful – fundraising campaign under the visionary leadership of Lawrence Bloomberg. Joining him in leading phase two of the campaign was Michael Bregman and now Ed Sonshine, Chair of the Foundation Board. Today more than $250 million has been generated, funding leading-edge research, improved facilities, and innovative programs. The Best Medicine campaign has an ambitious goal to raise a total of $400 million by 2008.

Our donors understand the power of their philanthropy to transform innovative ideas into healthier lives. While government funds the Hospital's operating budget, it is our donors who provide Mount Sinai funds that allow flexibility and opportunity to innovate, upgrade, and adapt to rapidly changing healthcare delivery. This generosity is the bedrock that supports the best care for our patients – now and in the future.

Inside this Report, you will see how the contributions of thousands of people in the Mount Sinai family have enabled our skilled and compassionate caregivers to continue providing our patients with the best medicine. While we can profile only a few individuals who have pledged over the last year, we value every dollar from every donor. Our friends in the community help us fulfill our vision of becoming one of the country's leading patient care, teaching, and research hospitals.

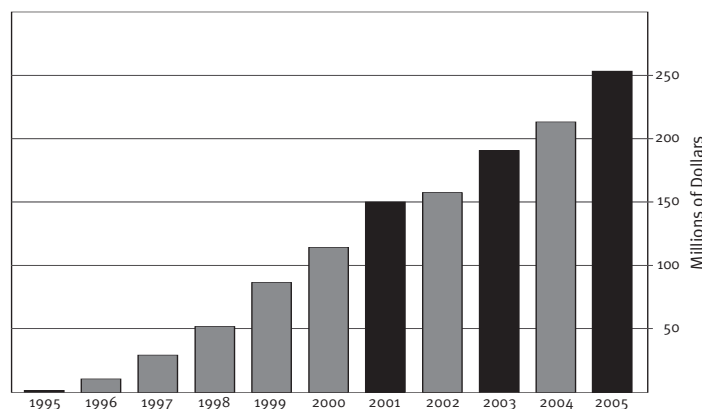

Join us as we thank and pay tribute to those who have helped make Mount Sinai Hospital synonymous with excellence, The Best Medicine.

the Kimel Family

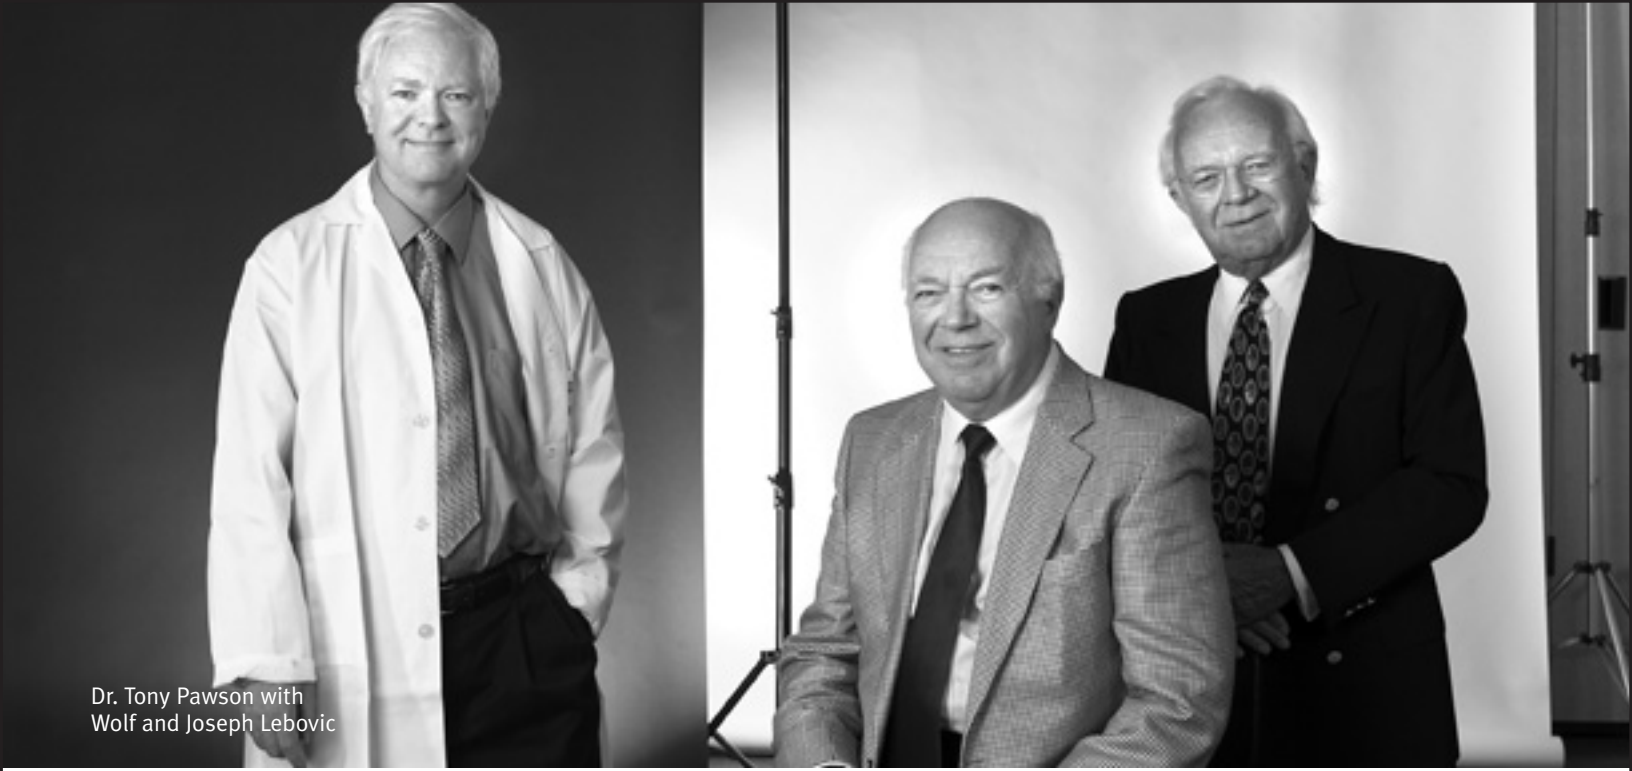

Seeing Patients in New Ways

Something extraordinary is under construction at Mount Sinai – and it is going to improve how our doctors provide care. It is the Kimel Family Centre for Advanced Medical Imaging, a state-of-the-art centre for sophisticated diagnostic and therapeutic techniques. The Centre has been made possible by an exceptional $8-million pledge from the Kimel family – Manny and Candice, Ron, Warren and Debbie, and Elkie and Abbie Adler. The Kimel family first contributed to the Hospital in 1988 in honour of their late mother, Eva Kimel, who was a grateful patient at Mount Sinai. Over the years they have supported both Mount Sinai's Nuclear Medicine and MRI facility – so this transformational gift is a generous extension of their continuing interest and commitment. The revitalized facility will not only transform the face of medical imaging, but will revolutionize our doctors' and technicians' ability to find, diagnose, and treat disease earlier.

This advanced technology, including two updated Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI) machines and a brand new Computerized Tomography (CT) scanner, allows physicians like Dr. Larry White to see inside the human body with powerful new tools.

These include clearer, sharper images, allowing for faster and more accurate diagnosis and treatment. In addition, this sophisticated equipment will improve patient care through faster turn-around times and improved privacy and comfort.

With a state-of-the-art facility like the Kimel Family Centre for Advanced Medical Imaging, we can see our patients in important new ways to provide them with the most effective care, with The Best Medicine.

Dr. Tony Pawson with
Wolf and Joseph Lebovic

Laying the Foundation for Discovery

Rising behind Mount Sinai is the impressive Joseph and Wolf Lebovic Research Centre, a building that symbolizes Mount Sinai's position as a highly respected academic research hospital. Housing a variety of research and clinical centres, this campus was made possible through a transformational $6-million gift from Joseph and Wolf Lebovic, two of the Hospital's most magnanimous donors.

For more than two decades, Mount Sinai has been the grateful recipient of their generosity – a cumulative gift of $16 million. Together with their father, the late Harry Lebovic, Joseph and Wolf founded Lebovic Enterprises in 1953. They hope to inspire others to give. Joseph says, "I really get so much pleasure from giving this money away...people should know giving doesn't hurt... It's a good investment."

The Joseph and Wolf Lebovic Research Centre, eloquent testament to their continued support, will house the Toronto Centre for Phenogenomics, a partnership of four Toronto teaching hospitals. This unique facility is dedicated to biological research using mice to determine the genetic basis of disease and cures in humans. This Centre will advance the Hospital's renowned Samuel Lunenfeld Research Institute, led by the remarkable Dr. Tony Pawson, who this year alone has won three prestigious awards for his innovative genome research, which will ultimately provide solutions on a grand scale.

The Lebovics' generosity will speed the process of genetic discoveries and their application to disease, translating from "bench" to "bedside." Ultimately, this improves care for our patients, enabling us to offer The Best Medicine.

Ira Gluskin and Maxine Granovsky-Gluskin with
Dr. David Tannenbaum

The Mark of Family Medicine: Relationships Begin Here

A key to ensuring your own good health comes from forming a trusted relationship with your family physician. In the case of Ira Gluskin and Maxine Granovsky-Gluskin, that bond with Dr. Warren Rubenstein led them to pledge $3 million to our Department of Family Medicine – one of the largest and most respected centres of its kind in Canada.

“No doctors in Canada are doing this to get rich – especially family doctors,” says Ira. “There’s no prestige associated with family medicine, really, and it’s a real sacrifice for them. They put in a lot of hours and our society will benefit by having more family doctors take care of us.”

As devoted philanthropists, both Ira and Maxine are valuable supporters of the Mount Sinai family. Their most recent gift testifies to that commitment, and their belief in the fundamental importance of family-based medical care.

The Granovsky-Gluskin Centre for Best Practice in Family Medicine, led by Dr. David Tannenbaum, will be housed in the Joseph and Wolf Lebovic Building. It will bring together Family Health Teams, including research and clinical care, enabling family doctors to apply the latest scientific breakthroughs, at Mount Sinai and elsewhere, to their patients.

An exciting model of multidisciplinary care with teams of physicians, nurses, allied health professionals, support staff, and volunteers, the new Granovsky-Gluskin Centre for Best Practice in Family Medicine will be a warm, welcoming environment for all patients and their families, a place where they will receive The Best Medicine.

Al Green, Dr. Bernard Zinman, and Malka Green

ARMed with Information

Two of Toronto's leading philanthropists and long-time supporters of the Hospital are Al and Malka Green, who have been part of the Mount Sinai family for more than 20 years.

Al wanted to make a gift that would benefit diabetes patients. To that end, the Greens' contribution launched an advanced electronic record keeping system – the Ambulatory Records Management System, known simply as ARMS – which has already started in the Leadership Sinai Centre for Diabetes.

The new ARMS system gives nurses and physicians, like Dr. Bernard Zinman, Division Head of the Leadership Sinai Centre for Diabetes, immediate access to patients' entire case histories and medical data. Having such complete and immediate information allows health care providers to focus much more time and energy on their patients. In addition, ARMS offers co-ordinated booking of lab, imaging, and specialist appointments. For patients with chronic diseases like diabetes, who require multiple medical visits, this advancement means appointments are easily co-ordinated, avoiding undue scheduling stress and encouraging faster access.

As a result of the Greens' latest generous donation, Mount Sinai now stands as a leader in the rapid advancement from a paper-based record system to an easily accessible, computerized database of information. This is just one essential part of providing The Best Medicine.

Barry and Honey Sherman with
Dr. Edward Keystone

Honouring Two Pioneering Doctors

It's a perfect match: two generous donors honouring two pioneering doctors.

As strong supporters of research, Barry and Honey Sherman, among Canada's leading philanthropists, paid tribute to the work and careers of Dr. Allan Gross and Dr. Edward Keystone, two of North America's leading specialists in orthopaedics and arthritis, respectively, with a $1-million gift toward their breakthrough research.

Associated with Mount Sinai Hospital for 33 years, Dr. Allan Gross has developed advances in orthopaedic transplantation that are now standard practice in operating rooms around the world. As a pioneer in surgical repair of the hip and bone, Dr. Gross draws patients and surgeons alike from all over the world to learn and benefit from his revolutionary techniques. A visit to Dr. Gross has come to mean an improved quality of life for countless grateful patients.

Dr. Edward Keystone is one of the great champions of new treatments for arthritis and other autoimmune diseases. Among many other positions and honours, he is the Chairman of the Canadian Rheumatology Research Consortium, founder of the Arthritis and Autoimmunity Research Centre, and Director of the Rebecca Macdonald Centre for Arthritis and Autoimmune Disease at Mount Sinai Hospital. Advancements in research generated through his work have come to mean an easier, more manageable way of life for thousands of arthritis sufferers.

Benefits of the Shermans' gift and the work of Drs. Gross and Keystone will be felt by patients receiving The Best Medicine in the community, and – given the sharing of medical advances – around the world, for years to come.

Auxiliary President
Heather Gotlieb and Nurse Janis Manes

A Labour of Love

Every year, more than 7,000 babies are born at Mount Sinai, making ours the busiest obstetrics unit in the country. So it shouldn't be any surprise that North America's largest hospital Auxiliary has embraced Women's and Infants' Health, a cause dear to the hearts of its members.

With its $6-million pledge recently fulfilled under the leadership of President Heather Gotlieb, the Auxiliary has set an ambitious new goal to raise $3.5 million – and named it, fittingly, Healthy Babies. Proceeds will support nurses like Janis Manes, by providing new fetal monitors and physical improvements for the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit, as well as supporting fetal and neonatal research at the Samuel Lunenfeld Research Institute. These funds will have an enormous impact on the provision of high-quality patient care – in this case, for our youngest, most vulnerable patients – for which Mount Sinai Hospital is known.

The Auxiliary is truly the heart of the Mount Sinai family, offering its continued support with enthusiasm, creativity, and dedication to ensure the very best patient care. The Auxiliary, the oldest in Canada, has raised more than $22 million since its inception more than 50 years ago – an achievement built on collective energy and shared vision. Without a doubt, its success will give thousands of high-risk newborns The Best Medicine, and a better chance at a healthy start in life.

Dr. Donald Low, Kenny Albert, Dr. Allison McGeer, and Jonathan Pollack. Albert and Pollack are longtime members of Leadership Sinai

Leading the Way

Leadership Sinai is a respected and energetic member of the Mount Sinai family. A program to attract and engage younger people, both emotionally and financially, Leadership Sinai encourages community leaders and young professionals to get involved in philanthropy and in Mount Sinai. This network of talented, committed men and women represents fresh Mount Sinai leadership, and has produced some of our most influential senior volunteers serving on Boards and Committees. Led by its President, Jordan Sarick, Leadership Sinai raises funds to meet the Hospital's needs through membership and a lively roster of events ranging from galas to golf tournaments to speakers' series that mix philanthropy with fun.

They know that the very heart of The Best Medicine is a promise to be here when our patients need us most. That's why Leadership Sinai has committed $1 million to support Mount Sinai's Highest Priorities, which will provide the financial capacity to respond to our most urgent healthcare needs, especially in times of crisis.

Another ambitious program is helping the Hospital play an increasingly vital role in the struggle against infectious diseases. The Leadership Sinai Centre for Infection Control, headed by Dr. Donald Low and Dr. Allison McGeer, strives to prevent the spread of infectious disease, as well as implementing preventative actions to help keep the community safe.

Leadership Sinai is having a wide-reaching and long-lasting impact. While successfully generating support for The Best Medicine, its members' enthusiasm helps cultivate the newest Mount Sinai leaders.
