The Patient Education Pavilion provides current, reliable health information for patients, families and members of their care team.

In the Education Pavilion you can:

- Learn how to navigate the internet to find good quality health information
- Find print and online brochures on your health conditions
- Have a Librarian help you find health information
- Learn about health care services and programs provided by Mount Sinai Hospital and the community
How do I know if a website’s information is reliable?

Ask yourself the following questions.

Who? Who runs the website?

- YES Is the site trying to educate you instead of sell to you?
- YES Are they qualified to talk about the subject?

What? What does the website say?

- YES Are facts presented instead of opinions?
- YES Are claims realistic?

When? When was the website updated?

- YES Is information up-to-date?

Where? Where did the information come from?

- YES Can the facts be verified?
- YES Is the author qualified to write about the topic?

Why? Why does the website exist?

- YES Does the website want to educate you instead of sell to you?
